As your students become more familiar with the resources and strategies in this toolkit, these cards can serve as quick reminders during tough moments.

Print and cut out these cards to keep on your lanyard for quick access.

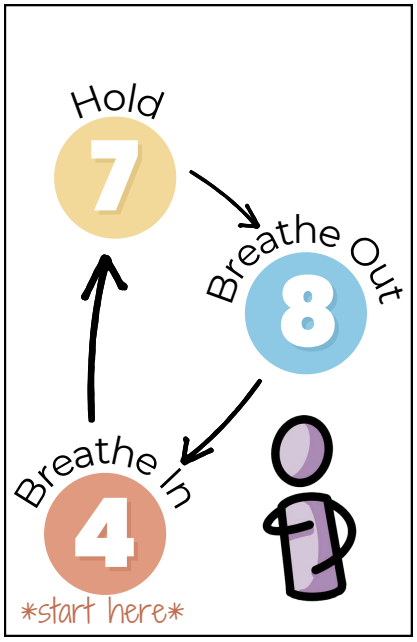

Hole punch a set and put them on a ring in your regulation station.

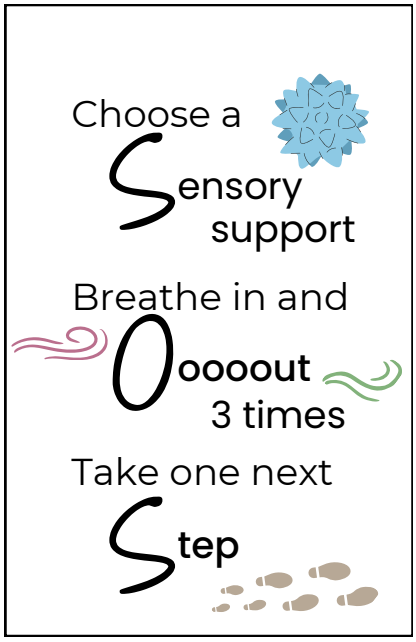

Many kids need few or no words when upset. Use these visual prompts to kindly offer choices.

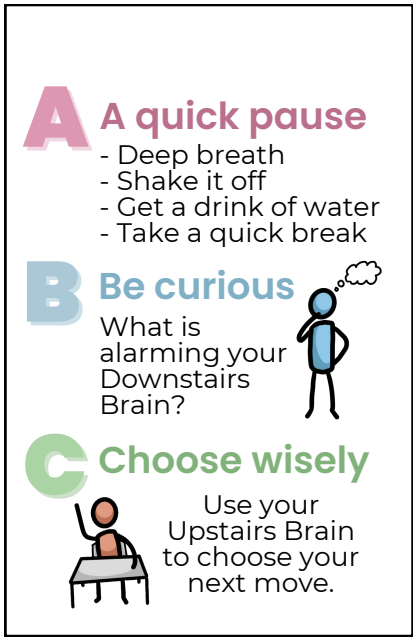

Consider printing extras to use as prompts during instruction or quiet work...but only after students have practiced these strategies with support.
